9. Procedure

9.1 Access to Support

9.1.1 Available support services will be advised to all prospective and current students via ACMi website.

9.1.2 Further information on how to access these services including contact details are provided on the student learning platform; access is provided upon enrolment. Refer to ACMi student services list for the services allocation.

9.2. Transition to Study:

9.2.1 ACMi provides an Orientation module/unit for students to complete prior to their first subject, and will be available throughout their studies.

9.2.2 The Orientation module/unit is designed to prepare students for study and to familiarize them with necessary academic skills and ACMi processes for the course of study.

9.2.3 ACMi will update the module/unit regularly to ensure appropriate information is provided and as part of continuous improvement processes.

9.3. Academic Support

9.3.1 Learning resources from completed subjects are continuously available to students throughout their period of enrolment. Also, study skills guide and other resources which support skill development (e.g. orientation to study, study skills, referencing conventions, etc.) are available throughout students' enrolment via continuous access to the ACMi orientation resources and study support site.

9.3.2 Regardless of the mode and location of delivery, ACMi academic staff involved in the teaching of a subject are required to:

9.3.2.1 support students throughout the subject duration, scheduled term by term and during the term break,

9.3.2.2 monitor and engage in the subject online forums,

9.3.2.3 respond to all student enquiries within two business days,

9.3.2.4 Students studying in fully online (if applicable) courses can seek assistance from academic staff via contact details as provided.

9.3.2.5 All students are provided access to a 24-hour learning management system; details are provided in the ACMi orientation.

9.4 Subject-specific Learning Resources:

9.4.1 ACMi provides all students access to a learning platform (ACMi LMS) which contains information and learning resources specifically designed for each subject in their course of study.

9.4.2 Subject Outlines, as hosted on the learning platform, include comprehensive information on the course content, assessment requirements and learning resources available.

9.4.3 A variety of other subject-specific resources are provided for each subject which will normally include introductory videos, study guides to accompany the required text for each subject, tutorials and activities, and current articles.

9.4.4 Subject-specific learning resources and the student learning platform are maintained by ACMi's admin staff

9.5 Online Library (via LMS)

9.5.1 ACMi provides access to an online library which can be accessed on the learning platform.

9.5.2 The ACMi Librarian is responsible for maintaining appropriate subscriptions to journal, eBook and other relevant databases, and from whom students can seek assistance with the database as appropriate.

9.5.3 Students are able to directly contact the ACMi admin staff via a login on the learning platform and as demonstrated in the Orientation.

9.6 Non-Academic Support

9.6.1 All students: wellbeing support

9.6.1.1 ACMi provides access for all students, including for victims of cyberbullying, sexual harassment and predatory online behaviours, at no extra cost and via the student learning portal, to confidential personal support, including mental health and wellbeing by providing relevant information and guidance.

9.6.1.2 Academic and Student Support staff will flag any incidents to the coordinator where welfare concerns are evident in the case of Online students.

9.6.1.3 Where ACMi reviews the effectiveness and appropriateness of third-party support services, it shall seek general information which does not identify any individual student. However, students can freely provide feedback on third party support services to ACMi either confidentially or via provided student surveys.

9.6.1.4 Risk assessment of non-academic wellbeing is undertaken through regular monitoring of responses to course surveys and our grievance handling processes.

9.6.2 All students: special needs

9.6.2.1 Students can advise if they have any special needs that require additional support. These special needs could relate to disabilities, health or learning issues or requirements for cultural support or ancillary services.

9.6.2.1.1 Where known, it is preferable that requests are advised on the ACMi application form so that ACMi can assess, prior to the commencement of studies, if any adjustments can be accommodated or if additional services or resources are to be made available.

9.6.2.1.2 Students may advise ACMi of any learning difficulties or special needs that require additional support during their studies via the provided student support services; specialist advice may be required and ACMi will take reasonable steps to ensure timely provision.

9.6.2.2 ACMi will process requests for additional services addressing individual special needs in a timely manner so that reasonable adjustments or liaison with appropriate support can be made.

9.6.2.3 In determining whether an adjustment may be considered reasonable, ACMi shall take into account the financial and other resources required to make such an adjustment and whether it would result in an unjustifiable hardship on ACMi in its capacity to provide quality education across its entire student population.

9.6.2.4 Students requiring additional English support may be recommended to attend external English language classes; any additional costs will be borne by the student.
